

Are you acting as a Host Family?

If so, it is important that your Buildings and Contents Insurance are correctly arranged. This includes disclosing that you are acting as a Host Family to your insurance company.

Some insurers will not provide insurance cover when they are aware that you have paying guests.

Correct insurance protection is essential and need not be expensive. However, failure to arrange your insurance correctly could have disastrous consequences in the event of a claim.

Gibbs Denley have many years of experience arranging cover for Host Families. As Independent Insurance Advisers, we deal with many insurers and have access to schemes that are able to provide extremely competitive rates and excellent cover.
