

Talk by Artist Elaine Robinson: Exploring Identity Through Fingerprints

THE BIG ISSUE THE BIG ISSUE THE BIG ISSUE THE BIG ISSUE LATEST CULTURE

By Liam Geraghty @Lazergun_Nun March 1, 2019

Elaine Robinson's mission to travel the UK to collect people's fingerprints left her an unexpected bystander as MPs rushed to cast their vote on Theresa May's Brexit deal.

The Barrow single mum has been travelling the UK on her SPOTtimespotTIME tour since 2015 in a bid to sum up Britain's collective identity.

In a time of great division, Bristol-based artist Elaine Robinson's ambitious project is about connecting people across the UK, asking them to leave their fingerprints and talk about identity. How do we react when we are asked for our fingerprint? What constitutes our uniqueness and what gives us our collective voice?

At the end of the talk, leave your fingerprint and be part of this piece of international artwork!

Wednesday 12 June
Abon House, 3.45pm
FREE